

Mrs. Bradley stood near looking into his face. She had replaced the revolver in her pocket, but stood her ground boldly.

Senator as Accuser.
Mr. Talty asked:
"Did you shoot yourself, Senator?"
"No; I did not," answered Mr. Brown between groans. "The woman there did it," he continued, pointing to Mrs. Bradley.

"Are you his wife, madam?" asked Mr. Talty.
"I am not," said Mrs. Bradley, slowly.
"But he is the father of my two children," she continued in a firm voice.
The ambulance from the Emergency Hospital was hastily summoned, and the wounded man was conveyed to the hospital in a few moments. Dr. White cherished but little hope of the wounded man's recovery after his hurried examination, but Senator Brown was taken to the operating room and here measures were adopted to save his life.

Probed Several Hours.
The wound in his abdomen was large and filled with particles of cloth carried in by the bullet. The physicians probed for the bullet, but did not succeed in locating it for several hours.

Without the slightest sign of agitation or emotion, but wearing a smile on a sweet, sad face, Mrs. Bradley accompanied Policemen Emmert and Lamb to the station house, a few steps from the hotel where the tragedy was enacted.

There she was taken into the office of Captain Williams and told her story. She admitted having done the shooting, and said she believed she was justified. After an hour or two with Captain Williams, Lieutenant Hartley, Sergeant Lohman, Detective Burlingame, and other officers of the law, she was given into the care of Mrs. Thornburgh, the matron, who comforted her and ministered to her wants.

As she was being assisted to the witness room Mrs. Bradley struck her cheeks and murmured in a low tone: "My God! My God! My God!"

Costly Set of Furs.
She was plainly dressed, except for a costly set of furs and a new hat covered with plumes. Her step was unsteady, and she became somewhat unnerved when taken into the matron's room to be searched. The gun-metal revolver, the two empty .38-caliber shells and four loaded ones were taken in charge by Captain Williams, to be used as evidence.

Once inside the room out of the gaze of all save the matron, Mrs. Bradley threw herself upon the bed, buried her face in the pillow and repeated over and over again:
"My only regret is that I did not end my life and bury my flaming shame."

Seventy-five cents and several small papers were found in her pocketbook. She said that it was every cent she owned.

Throughout the entire evening she was questioned by Central Office detectives, Precinct Detective Mullen, Inspector of Detectives Boardman, and newspaper men, but no one could draw out of her anything she did not care to say.

Intellectual Looking.
Mrs. Bradley is a refined and intellectual looking woman, thirty-four years of age. She is apparently a woman of delicate constitution. Her face is marked with lines of care and anxiety. There is a look of sadness and anguish in her eyes, and her cheeks are colorless. She has an abundance of dark brown hair, and she smiled continually as she talked in a low, well modulated voice.

When a question she did not care to answer was put to her, she smiled faintly, and looking her interrogator in the eyes, replied:
"Really, I'd prefer not talking of that. I ask your sympathy. I'm only a woman. This is the first time I was ever in Washington, and I do not know a soul here, with the exception of Senator Sutherland, and he is the only friend I have in the world."

Senator Sutherland was the first and only person called for by Mrs. Bradley when she was taken into custody. When he arrived, she raised herself from the bed, smiled, and shook hands with him. The two were left alone by the matron and talked for fifteen minutes. Mrs. Bradley asked only sympathy of her visitor.

When he left her, he stated that she had not asked him to procure bond or counsel. He said he was acquainted with Senator Brown and Mrs. Bradley.

A Newspaper Woman.
Mrs. Bradley says she was at one time in the newspaper business, but abandoned the profession to accept a position with the Republican committee in Salt Lake City.

Her sister, she says, is at the head of the Inter-Mountain Press Association in Salt Lake City. She will not divulge the name of her relatives, however, saying: "My shame is to be borne by me alone."

Died.
CARTER—At De Land, Fla., November 7, 1906, MARY MILDRED CARTER, wife of Maj. George T. Carter, and mother of Mrs. Warren W. Foster.
Notice of funeral later.
(Concord and Franklin, N. H., papers please copy.)

KIRBY—Suddenly, ARTHUR F. KIRBY, in his fortieth year.
Funeral from his mother's residence, 909 E street northwest, Monday, December 10, at 2 o'clock. Relatives and friends invited.
Interment private.

CROPPER—On December 7, 1906, JOHN CROPPER, son of T. W. and R. M. Cropper, and husband of Anne Cropper, at his residence, 1742 M street, aged fifty-six years.
Funeral services at St. John's Church, Sunday afternoon, December 9, at 2 o'clock.

HALLARAN—On Saturday, December 8, 1906, at her home, 720 Eighth street northwest, ELIZABETH CECILIA HALLARAN, widow of William E. Hallaran, and daughter of Henry Wilkinson, of Philadelphia, Pa.
Funeral at 9 a. m., Monday, December 10, 1906, from St. Patrick's Church, Interment at Glenwood Cemetery.

FABST—On Thursday, December 6, 1906, at 11 o'clock a. m., MATTHIAS FABST, beloved father of Mrs. A. Schwartz.
Funeral Sunday at 2:30 o'clock from his late residence, 501 C street southwest. Relatives and friends invited.

YOAKLEY & JENKINS,
UNDERTAKERS AND EMBALMERS,
905 H st. n. w.—Funeral parlors—Phone M. 4564, nois-17

J. WILLIAM LEE,
UNDERTAKER AND LIVERY,
233 Pennsylvania, N. W., Washington, D. C.
Telephone Main 1385.

FUNERAL DESIGNS
of every description—moderately priced.
GUDE,
1214 F St. Northwest. Phone M. 4279.

Brown, she says, cost her her home, honor and all else she held sacred and dear. She says she promised him and again to marry her. Almost seven years ago a son was born to her. She called the infant Arthur Brown. She pleaded with Senator Brown, so she says, to marry her and give the child a name in the world, and he said he would, so she alleges. She grew well and strong again. People shunned her, or she avoided them. Everyone, she says, deserted her. She remained loyal to him, although she alleges he broke many promises to make her his wife.

He was a widower, had money and position, and she believed it his duty to live up to his pledge. He put her off again and again, she says, with promises of the future. Five years ago another son, whom she called Montgomery, was born to her in Salt Lake City.

As the years dragged on, her aching heart increased, but through all she clung to hope. At the anniversary of the children's births she became despondent and depressed, but was again buoyed up with hopes for the future.

Brown Leaves Her.
Last Friday Senator Brown left Salt Lake City and the woman who claims to be the mother of his two children. She wept and spent two restless nights. Then she became desperate. Leaving her children in the care of a woman in Salt Lake City, she boarded an east-bound train last Tuesday and came to Washington to track down and have a last reckoning with Senator Brown. She brought the revolver across the Continent with her.

In the witness room last evening Mrs. Bradley said:
"In so far as a person could be justified for such action as I have taken I am justified. If ever there was justification for anything in the world this is one of those cases, and that will be discovered when the facts are known. The unwritten law will protect me. I did this in sheer desperation and not because I was frantic and everything seemed black and cold when he refused to do the right thing."

"I did not come here with the intention of shooting him."

Another Woman, She Says.
While in Kalamazoo, Senator Brown figured in a sensational shooting affair. It is said that he was fired at by a woman, and for this reason left Kalamazoo. When asked if she was the woman that once before attempted to kill the former Senator, Mrs. Bradley said:

"I know all about that affair, but I was not the woman. No; I was not mixed up with it in any way."

Asked if she had come here expecting to marry him, she said she would have to decline to answer the question.

The shooting caused the greatest excitement in the hotel. Many persons heard the shot, and rushed to the second floor. The hotel is filled with many Congressmen, to whom Mr. Brown is known personally.

In all the hotels and in official circles the affair was the one topic of conversation last night.

Her Detailed Statement.
Mrs. Bradley made the following statement in answer to a series of questions later in the evening. She was calm and composed then as if she were doing the honors at an afternoon tea. And, but for a tired look in her black eyes, she showed no signs of having gone through the ordeal of trying to end a man's life.

"Mrs. Bradley, have you any statement to make?" she was asked.
"None, except that I think I was entirely justified in what I did," she said.

"We understand you were advised by a United States Senator not to make a statement," she suggested.
"Oh, please don't bring his name into this!" she said with a pleasing smile. "You know, I long ago forfeited the right to call anybody friend. I don't expect that any longer, but there are times when I wish I had never known him."

"I don't seem myself." She said a moment as if trying to remember something, and passed her hand over her black hair piled high on the head.

"I don't seem to be myself," she said.

Couple's Misconduct Old Scandal in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 8.—The intimacy of former Senator Arthur M. Brown and Mrs. Anna M. Bradley has been a public scandal in Utah for years and people here who are familiar with the facts are not surprised at the outcome of the case.

Ten years ago, during the McKinley-Bryan campaign, Mrs. Bradley was prominent in politics, and as Brown was chairman of the Republican State Committee, they were thrown together a great deal and became very intimate.

In 1902 Brown and the Bradley woman were arrested. When the cases came to trial Mrs. Bradley pleaded guilty and Brown pleaded not guilty. Through his influence the cases dragged along for months and finally were dismissed.

Since then they have been arrested several times but Brown always managed to elude prosecution. About a year ago Brown's wife, Mrs. Abbie Cameron Brown, died and it was supposed by many people that the guilty pair would be married.

This was Mrs. Bradley's belief also, but Brown evidently had grown tired of her and made no move toward marriage.

When he left for Washington about two weeks ago, he left money to buy her a railroad ticket to Los Angeles, but instead she decided to go East and followed him to Washington, last Monday. Her friends and relatives here believed she was in California and only learned today of her presence in Washington. Bartsch and Hagley, attorneys of this city, and Leckie, Fulton and Cox, of Washington, have been retained as Mrs. Bradley's counsel.

Judge Bartsch was until recently chief justice of the supreme court of Utah.

Ohio, and a son in the Chicago University."

Was to Speak Tomorrow.
Senator Brown came to Washington Friday last as one of the attorneys for the St. Louis Mining and Mining Company, whose case against the Montana Mining Company, limited, will come up in the United States Supreme Court Monday.

Mr. Gunn, a prominent lawyer, of Helena, Mont., is the other attorney for the St. Louis concern.

Mr. Gunn met Senator Brown in Chicago, and the two came to this city together, both securing rooms at the Raleigh. After coming to Washington, Senator Brown spent much of his time in the law library of Ralston & Sidons, attorneys, with offices in the Bond building.

Senator Brown and Mr. Gunn had argued the case all through the lower courts, decisions favorable to their clients having been rendered by all the lower tribunals. In the circuit court at Los Angeles, Cal., a year ago, a verdict for $100,000 had been rendered in favor of the St. Louis company. Mr. Gunn stated last night that he will not ask for a postponement when the case is called in the Supreme Court tomorrow.

Brown's Family Notified.
Senator Brown asked that telegrams be sent to several of his friends and relatives. His son, who is a student at the law school of the University of Chicago, was notified soon after the shooting occurred, and it is expected that he will come to Washington immediately.

A married daughter living in Columbus, Ohio, was also notified.

A dispatch telling of the shooting was sent to Mrs. Annie Adams, mother of Maud Adams, the actress, who lives in Salt Lake City, and is a close friend of the Senator's family.

Mr. Gunn said last night that he went to the law library of the Capitol with Senator Brown yesterday morning. He left him there, but having other business to attend to, did not reach the hotel until shortly after the shooting occurred. Mr. Gunn said that Senator Brown told him he found Mrs. Bradley in his room when he reached the hotel. He was so weak from loss of blood that he did not make any further statement to him.

SAYS ENGLAND BOWS TO AMERICA'S WILL

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Commenting on the correspondence made public yesterday by the Earl of Elgin, British Secretary of State for the Colonies, in regard to the New Foundland fisheries dispute, the Observer says:

"Because of our desire to placate America on any international question we have once more bent the knee to American interests without adequate state-manship regard for the imperial necessity. We threw the colony down."

The Observer then proceeds to demand that a man of real statesmanship undertake to be appointed to the Ambassadorship at Washington. The Ambassador, it argues, must not only be a diplomatic tactician, but a cosmopolitan.

"Where did you live when you were a girl?"
"I left Kansas City, where I was born, and went to school for seven years in Denver. From there I went to Salt Lake, where I have been for sixteen years. I was nominated for city auditor there ten years ago."

"Where is the Senator's family?"
"He has a daughter in Columbus, Ohio, and a son in the Chicago University."

Was to Speak Tomorrow.
Senator Brown came to Washington Friday last as one of the attorneys for the St. Louis Mining and Mining Company, whose case against the Montana Mining Company, limited, will come up in the United States Supreme Court Monday.

Mr. Gunn, a prominent lawyer, of Helena, Mont., is the other attorney for the St. Louis concern.

Mr. Gunn met Senator Brown in Chicago, and the two came to this city together, both securing rooms at the Raleigh. After coming to Washington, Senator Brown spent much of his time in the law library of Ralston & Sidons, attorneys, with offices in the Bond building.

Senator Brown and Mr. Gunn had argued the case all through the lower courts, decisions favorable to their clients having been rendered by all the lower tribunals. In the circuit court at Los Angeles, Cal., a year ago, a verdict for $100,000 had been rendered in favor of the St. Louis company. Mr. Gunn stated last night that he will not ask for a postponement when the case is called in the Supreme Court tomorrow.

Brown's Family Notified.
Senator Brown asked that telegrams be sent to several of his friends and relatives. His son, who is a student at the law school of the University of Chicago, was notified soon after the shooting occurred, and it is expected that he will come to Washington immediately.

A married daughter living in Columbus, Ohio, was also notified.

A dispatch telling of the shooting was sent to Mrs. Annie Adams, mother of Maud Adams, the actress, who lives in Salt Lake City, and is a close friend of the Senator's family.

Mr. Gunn said last night that he went to the law library of the Capitol with Senator Brown yesterday morning. He left him there, but having other business to attend to, did not reach the hotel until shortly after the shooting occurred. Mr. Gunn said that Senator Brown told him he found Mrs. Bradley in his room when he reached the hotel. He was so weak from loss of blood that he did not make any further statement to him.

SAYS ENGLAND BOWS TO AMERICA'S WILL

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Commenting on the correspondence made public yesterday by the Earl of Elgin, British Secretary of State for the Colonies, in regard to the New Foundland fisheries dispute, the Observer says:

"Because of our desire to placate America on any international question we have once more bent the knee to American interests without adequate state-manship regard for the imperial necessity. We threw the colony down."

The Observer then proceeds to demand that a man of real statesmanship undertake to be appointed to the Ambassadorship at Washington. The Ambassador, it argues, must not only be a diplomatic tactician, but a cosmopolitan.

"Where did you live when you were a girl?"
"I left Kansas City, where I was born, and went to school for seven years in Denver. From there I went to Salt Lake, where I have been for sixteen years. I was nominated for city auditor there ten years ago."

"Where is the Senator's family?"
"He has a daughter in Columbus, Ohio, and a son in the Chicago University."

Couple's Misconduct Old Scandal in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 8.—The intimacy of former Senator Arthur M. Brown and Mrs. Anna M. Bradley has been a public scandal in Utah for years and people here who are familiar with the facts are not surprised at the outcome of the case.

Ten years ago, during the McKinley-Bryan campaign, Mrs. Bradley was prominent in politics, and as Brown was chairman of the Republican State Committee, they were thrown together a great deal and became very intimate.

In 1902 Brown and the Bradley woman were arrested. When the cases came to trial Mrs. Bradley pleaded guilty and Brown pleaded not guilty. Through his influence the cases dragged along for months and finally were dismissed.

Since then they have been arrested several times but Brown always managed to elude prosecution. About a year ago Brown's wife, Mrs. Abbie Cameron Brown, died and it was supposed by many people that the guilty pair would be married.

This was Mrs. Bradley's belief also, but Brown evidently had grown tired of her and made no move toward marriage.

When he left for Washington about two weeks ago, he left money to buy her a railroad ticket to Los Angeles, but instead she decided to go East and followed him to Washington, last Monday. Her friends and relatives here believed she was in California and only learned today of her presence in Washington. Bartsch and Hagley, attorneys of this city, and Leckie, Fulton and Cox, of Washington, have been retained as Mrs. Bradley's counsel.

Judge Bartsch was until recently chief justice of the supreme court of Utah.

Ohio, and a son in the Chicago University."

Was to Speak Tomorrow.
Senator Brown came to Washington Friday last as one of the attorneys for the St. Louis Mining and Mining Company, whose case against the Montana Mining Company, limited, will come up in the United States Supreme Court Monday.

Mr. Gunn, a prominent lawyer, of Helena, Mont., is the other attorney for the St. Louis concern.

Mr. Gunn met Senator Brown in Chicago, and the two came to this city together, both securing rooms at the Raleigh. After coming to Washington, Senator Brown spent much of his time in the law library of Ralston & Sidons, attorneys, with offices in the Bond building.

Senator Brown and Mr. Gunn had argued the case all through the lower courts, decisions favorable to their clients having been rendered by all the lower tribunals. In the circuit court at Los Angeles, Cal., a year ago, a verdict for $100,000 had been rendered in favor of the St. Louis company. Mr. Gunn stated last night that he will not ask for a postponement when the case is called in the Supreme Court tomorrow.

Brown's Family Notified.
Senator Brown asked that telegrams be sent to several of his friends and relatives. His son, who is a student at the law school of the University of Chicago, was notified soon after the shooting occurred, and it is expected that he will come to Washington immediately.

A married daughter living in Columbus, Ohio, was also notified.

A dispatch telling of the shooting was sent to Mrs. Annie Adams, mother of Maud Adams, the actress, who lives in Salt Lake City, and is a close friend of the Senator's family.

Mr. Gunn said last night that he went to the law library of the Capitol with Senator Brown yesterday morning. He left him there, but having other business to attend to, did not reach the hotel until shortly after the shooting occurred. Mr. Gunn said that Senator Brown told him he found Mrs. Bradley in his room when he reached the hotel. He was so weak from loss of blood that he did not make any further statement to him.

SAYS ENGLAND BOWS TO AMERICA'S WILL

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Commenting on the correspondence made public yesterday by the Earl of Elgin, British Secretary of State for the Colonies, in regard to the New Foundland fisheries dispute, the Observer says:

"Because of our desire to placate America on any international question we have once more bent the knee to American interests without adequate state-manship regard for the imperial necessity. We threw the colony down."

The Observer then proceeds to demand that a man of real statesmanship undertake to be appointed to the Ambassadorship at Washington. The Ambassador, it argues, must not only be a diplomatic tactician, but a cosmopolitan.

"Where did you live when you were a girl?"
"I left Kansas City, where I was born, and went to school for seven years in Denver. From there I went to Salt Lake, where I have been for sixteen years. I was nominated for city auditor there ten years ago."

"Where is the Senator's family?"
"He has a daughter in Columbus, Ohio, and a son in the Chicago University."

Was to Speak Tomorrow.
Senator Brown came to Washington Friday last as one of the attorneys for the St. Louis Mining and Mining Company, whose case against the Montana Mining Company, limited, will come up in the United States Supreme Court Monday.

Mr. Gunn, a prominent lawyer, of Helena, Mont., is the other attorney for the St. Louis concern.

Mr. Gunn met Senator Brown in Chicago, and the two came to this city together, both securing rooms at the Raleigh. After coming to Washington, Senator Brown spent much of his time in the law library of Ralston & Sidons, attorneys, with offices in the Bond building.

Senator Brown and Mr. Gunn had argued the case all through the lower courts, decisions favorable to their clients having been rendered by all the lower tribunals. In the circuit court at Los Angeles, Cal., a year ago, a verdict for $100,000 had been rendered in favor of the St. Louis company. Mr. Gunn stated last night that he will not ask for a postponement when the case is called in the Supreme Court tomorrow.

Brown's Family Notified.
Senator Brown asked that telegrams be sent to several of his friends and relatives. His son, who is a student at the law school of the University of Chicago, was notified soon after the shooting occurred, and it is expected that he will come to Washington immediately.

A married daughter living in Columbus, Ohio, was also notified.

A dispatch telling of the shooting was sent to Mrs. Annie Adams, mother of Maud Adams, the actress, who lives in Salt Lake City, and is a close friend of the Senator's family.

Mr. Gunn said last night that he went to the law library of the Capitol with Senator Brown yesterday morning. He left him there, but having other business to attend to, did not reach the hotel until shortly after the shooting occurred. Mr. Gunn said that Senator Brown told him he found Mrs. Bradley in his room when he reached the hotel. He was so weak from loss of blood that he did not make any further statement to him.

SAYS ENGLAND BOWS TO AMERICA'S WILL

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Commenting on the correspondence made public yesterday by the Earl of Elgin, British Secretary of State for the Colonies, in regard to the New Foundland fisheries dispute, the Observer says:

"Because of our desire to placate America on any international question we have once more bent the knee to American interests without adequate state-manship regard for the imperial necessity. We threw the colony down."

The Observer then proceeds to demand that a man of real statesmanship undertake to be appointed to the Ambassadorship at Washington. The Ambassador, it argues, must not only be a diplomatic tactician, but a cosmopolitan.

"Where did you live when you were a girl?"
"I left Kansas City, where I was born, and went to school for seven years in Denver. From there I went to Salt Lake, where I have been for sixteen years. I was nominated for city auditor there ten years ago."

"Where is the Senator's family?"
"He has a daughter in Columbus, Ohio, and a son in the Chicago University."

FREE

A large box of fine candy given with every pair of School and Children's Shoes, this Week

Special Prices on Rubbers This Week

Cut Prices on Holiday Shoes This Week

Julietts are very handsome. That they are comfortable beyond any other winter foot covering, every body knows that has ever worn a pair. You will find nothing wanting that's desirable. We have many other styles in Ladies' House and Evening Slippers; Patent, French Kid, and Beaded Vici; Military and French Heels. Here is an opportunity that will interest every buyer, for we have on sale this week from our late purchase the largest and most complete line of Men's and Ladies' Footwear, comprising all of the latest styles.

Ladies' $1.00 Shoes, patent and tip same. Blucher and lace. Special $1.15

Ladies' $2.50 Shoes, vici kid and box calf, noted for wear and comfort. Special $1.65

Ladies' $3.00 Shoes, patent and vici, lace and button; Cuban and military heels. Stylish lasts at $2.45

Men's $2.50 Shoes, vici, box calf and patent stylish and serviceable. Blucher and lace styles at $1.95

Men's $3.00 Shoes; serviceable and comfortable at $1.49

Men's $3.00 Shoes, patent, vici kid, lace and blucher styles, from $2.49

Men's $5.00 and $6.00 Shoes, in gun-metal, patent and vici; blucher, button and lace. All made by standard factories, at $3.49

Ladies' $1.50 Shoes, vici kid, tip same and patent 98c

Ladies' $3.00 Shoes, vici kid and patent; also dill calf, lace and blucher; light and heavy soles, at $1.95

Ladies' $4.00 and $5.00 Shoes, gun-metal, patent and vici; blucher, button and lace; many handsome styles in the lot at $3.45

Men's $2.50 Shoes, vici kid and patent; blucher and lace. Special $1.95

Men's $4.00 Shoes, patent, gun-metal and vici, lace and button; many swell styles at $2.95

Felt Julietts and Slippers

We have on sale this week a beautiful line of Felt Julietts and Slippers in all the Fashionable shades, blue, dark red, brown, black, and others. Fur and plain tops; many styles to select from at following prices:

75c Grade at 50c
$1.25 Grade at 98c

$1.69 Grade at $1.25
$2.00 Grade at $1.69

$2.25 Grade at $1.98
$3.00 Grade at $2.49

Boys', Misses', and Children's Shoes

We have a complete line to make your selection from. Noted for durability and style, at the following reduced prices:

85c Grade at 55c
$1.10 Grade at 75c

$1.35 Grade at 95c
$1.75 Grade at $1.35

$2.15 Grade at $1.65
$2.69 Grade at $1.95

THORNTON'S SHOE STORE

706 Seventh Street N. W.

Special Notices.

NOTICE TO HORSE OWNERS.—At this season of the year when men and women are wearing warmer clothing and sitting in heated rooms, or if they go out, putting on overcoats and furs, it is the custom with certain thoughtful persons to cut from their horses the longer warmer coats which nature provides in winter.

The Humane Society will do what it can for the protection of these outraged, denuded horses. A blanket is a poor substitute for the natural coat. It affords no protection for the chest, neck, throat, and legs. Those who clip their horses and substitute blankets would better buy very good blankets this winter and use them all the time.

C. A. SNOW,
President Humane Society.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Crude Oil Power Company will occur on JANUARY 4TH 1907, at the office of the company, 608 Junction Building, Kansas City, Mo. FRED J. CLOSE, President.

Window Shades. Oil Opague Shades... 40c
Empire Oil Opague... 50c
Shades, King Scotch Holland... 75c hung free. Will call with sample.
Bundlett's Shade Factory, 1715 B St. N. W.

Church Notices.